

RICH WOMAN LED RIOTERS.

Handsomely Dressed She Ran at the Head of Strikers.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Two hundred women pickets, led by a woman, richly dressed, precipitated a wild demonstration against the non-union workmen at the Marshall Field Building, at Clark and Adams streets, yesterday. There was a fierce street battle, in which the police guarding the non-union men were almost overpowered. The police were forced to draw their revolvers and shoot to hold the mob at bay.

Seventeen men, including combatants and spectators, were injured, and others were trampled on or shaken up in the general fight. Attracted by the mad yells of the attacking party and the wild demonstrations of the surging crowd, hundreds of people rushed to the place from adjoining streets. The throng gathered converging at the point were shocked with people, who urged on the strikers.

Above the roar of the street sounded the shrill voice of the woman who acted as the leader. She stood just behind the front rank of the fighting pickets, where blows fell thickly, and waved an umbrella and white silk handkerchief as she shouted encouragement.

She made a striking figure. Her costly fur cape had been pushed back from her shoulders by the mad jostling of the crowd. Her fashionable hat was slightly tilted to one side and her dark hair blew wildly about her flushed face. She wore a long, ornate, light-colored dress with an unusual high collar and flashed the lightning of scorn at the opposing force of police and the non-union men cowering behind them. She wore a dark silk waist with a white front of ruffy material and a black silk skirt.

By the closing up of the street with riotous people she was stopped for a time. She was hurriedly turned in to the police stations and all the available policemen were rushed to the spot.

When the mad crowd was under control, Policemen Patton and Hold of the 10th Precinct, who had been in the rioting and told her she was under arrest. She protested her innocence of any intention to do harm and pleaded to be let go. The crowd surged around and cheered.

She and her husband, was Anna Baird, who had been married on the South Side. She is about forty-five years of age. She refused to give her address or name, promising that she would go home immediately she was released and disappeared. It was impossible to learn her whereabouts.

DR. JOHN HALL'S TABLET.

Prove Discussion in Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church Over the Inscription.

Prove to the discussion over the memorial tablet to the Rev. Dr. John Hall in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. It bids fair to divide the congregation.

The quotation on the tablet is declared by some of his former parishioners to be a reflection on the good doctor. They fear it will be taken for a joke.

The tablet is of bronze and is inscribed:

Rev. JOHN HALL, D. D., LL. D., Born County Armagh, Ireland, July 31, 1829.

Died County Down, Ireland, September 17, 1898.

For forty-nine years, a Presbyterian Minister, Pastor of this Church, From Nov. 2, 1851, to Sept. 17, 1898.

There remaineth therefore a rest to the people of God.
